The farther the campaign progresses the plainer it is that there will be a solid North.

English, the Shylock of the Democratic party can't beat Shakespeare's Shylock all to pieces.

Mr. Babbitt's "six of the best horses in the State" are not of much service in a Congressional race.

With all the advantages Doolittle has above any other Democratic candidate in this district, he could not venture to be a candidate for Congress.

The Democrat have given up all hope of carrying Indiana in October. They can't stem the tide against English's mortgages on the poor people.

The Democrats are both disheartened and discouraged in Ohio. But that is nothing. They have been disheartened and discouraged for many years, and they will not have a change this year.

The Democratic olive branch of peace which was so prominently displayed at the Cincinnati convention, seems to have withered. John Kelly is not to be harmonized, and the war between Tilden and Tammany still goes on. View the Democratic party from whatever point you may, you will see broken ranks, disorganization, and blighted hopes.

The Irish Republicans of Vermont recently held an immense meeting at Rutland. Some prominent Irish speakers were present from abroad. An Irish Garfield club was organized, which already contains the names of several hundred persons. The break in the Democratic vote of that State creates great enthusiasm among the Republicans.

The Democrats occupy a very singular position. They want Hancock to signify all things to all classes of men in their ranks—"State rights to the South, nationality to the North, hard money to the East, soft money to the West, protective tariff to Pennsylvania, free-trade to Illinois," and so on through the whole list of questions upon which their party is divided. This is their condition plainly and correctly stated, and they can not escape from the logic of their position.

In speaking of the Congressional outlook in the 3d district, the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph says, "the fight being made against Mr. Hazleton and in favor of Colonel John G. Clark, also a Grant county man, has made it look quite gloomy for the sitting member." If reports are true, Mr. Hazelton will be renominated by a decided majority on the first ballot. He has already secured a majority of the delegates, which ought not to be a very gloomy matter for him.

The special committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the State Hospital for the insane has finished taking testimony. It will be sometime before the report, and the conclusions of the committee will be made public. As has been stated by the GAZETTE, several times, the committee will not find anything criminal on the part of these immediately concerned in the management of the hospital, but it will doubtless find that there has a good deal of bad bookkeeping and loose management.

When the Democratic party threw aside Mr. Tilden, refused to nominate Mr. Bayard, or recognize the claims of Mr. Thurman, it pushed aside all the candidates representing issues pending before the public, and confessed its weakness by taking up a candidate without political record and without known opinions upon any of the vital questions of the day. The fact is the party was afraid to go before the country with the issues it has represented during the last dozen years or more. Cowardice made it throw aside every candidate of pronounced opinion.

When Colonel John W. Forney was a Republican, he wrote a letter from Washington to his paper in Philadelphia, regarding the ceremonies on decoration day in the former city, and then he contrasted Garfield with Hancock in this wise:

"General Garfield, the orator of the day, was in fine health and spirits. General Hancock, handsome, but haughty, was not in the procession to the graves at all, evidently hating the effair because it was not intended to honor the rebels. Hancock is evidently beginning to discover that he cannot be the Democrat candidate for President without turning his back on all those who stood by him!"

This was Forney's opinion of Hancock on the 30 day of May, 1868, and about two weeks earlier than this date, he wrote another letter in which he took occasion to say: "The recent rebel administration of General Hancock has made treason bold and defiant throughout the State (Texas) and that, in consequence of his General Order No. 40, over sixty murders were committed within six months after he took command?"

The Democratic convention at Elkhorn, on Saturday, nominated Mr. Clinton Babbitt, of Beloit, for Congress. This may be regarded as a joke, but we understood the convention was in earnest, and that Mr. Babbitt, who was present, accepted the nomination. It is pretty hard work to give away the Democratic nomination in this district. There is not much satisfaction and precious little glory in being buried alive under five or six thousand Republican majority. This may be necessary for party sake, but Mr. Parker, Mr. Winslow, and others who have servtheir party in the capacity of figureheads, do not want any more of it. They have had enough and stand aside with a good deal of complacency when the nomination is put up to any body who will take. Mr. Babbitt is a good Democrat and a good stock grower, but these qualifications will not create for him a Congressional boom in this district. If he gets left by not more than 6,000 majority, he will have occasion to feel gratified.

On Saturday night, October 5th, 1878, there was a Republican mass meeting at Beloit. Mr. Williams was there and made a brilliant speech. Among those who were on the stage with Mr. Williams, was Mr. Clinton Babbitt, the present Democratic candidate for Congress against Mr. Williams. When the latter had closed his speech, Mr. Babbitt rose amid the cheers of the great crowd which filled the opera house, and said he would go to the polls on election day with a Democratic ticket in one hand and a pencil in the other, and would scratch the "black-and-tan" name off the ticket, and turning to Mr. Williams said he could vote for an honest man. The Democratic party is the same in 1880 as it was in 1878, and it will not be impertinent to ask Mr. Babbitt what he will do about it. Will he do as he did in 1878, scratch the Democratic ticket, and vote for an honest man, or has he changed his mind since then?

It would have been better for the reputation of Chicago had the Triennial Conclave been held elsewhere than in that city. It would be a difficult thing to lay the blame at the door of any particular man or committee of men. While the whole affair was badly managed and a bitter disappointment to many who expected to be "handsomely entertained," at a little cost, the real cause of the bad management and bitter disappointment was the immense crowd which invested the city. There were over 120,000 strangers who visited the city from Sunday morning to Wednesday. This filled the hotels, restaurants, and boarding houses to overflowing, which made it difficult for persons to be waited upon in anything like a satisfactory manner. The attendance of Knights was also immense which made the parade slow in movement and very hard to manage; while the tremendous rush of every conceivable class of characters made the "grande reception musicale et dansante" at the exposition building, a grande humbug. These disappointments with the extreme hot weather, have caused Chicago to be severely denounced by both Knights and persons outside the order. The Triennial Conclave will be held in San Francisco, in 1883, and Grand Commander Bruce, of California, being interviewed in Chicago on the subject, says they will not attempt any such a thing as was seen in that city. He said they did not want such a crowd neither of Knights nor citizens. They would have from 3,000 to 5,000 in line and no more; and then they could be marched in decent order and quietly and satisfactory entertained at the hotels. When asked if the millionaires of San Francisco had agreed to pay the fares of all Knights from Omaha to San Francisco and back, he said it was a ridiculous blunder, that nothing of the kind had been promised and beside that it would be a tax too heavy to be borne. He thought the railway companies would agree to carry the Knights from Omaha to San Francisco, and return for $50.

THE SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

It will be seen from the printed proceedings of the Senatorial convention held at the Court House this afternoon, that Hon. Hamilton Richardson was renominated for the State Senate. This result is a strong endorsement of Mr. Richardson. He has already served four years, and to be renominated for the third term is an honor which never before fell to the lot of a Rock county Senator. Then, again, there were more than half a dozen candidates for the office, and among the number were several of the most prominent men in the county, all of whom had served with credit in the Legislature. Taking this into account together with the fact that the country thought the city of Janesville was getting more than its share of the offices, and that a change was demanded, the renomination of Mr. Richardson can certainly be called very flattering and it is a compliment of which he may justly feel proud; for as we understand it, there was no log-rolling, no undue influences brought to bear upon his nomination, and no attempt was made to defeat the wishes of the people of the country. They had it in their power to nominate another person, but they did not use it, and it will be taken for granted that they preferred him to any other person whose name came before the convention.

Mr. Richardson is a strong man for the position he has held four years. He is one of the best informed men on State affairs we have in the country, and in the State Senate he made one of the most active and industrious members of that body.

OBITUARY.

BELOIT, Wis., August 22.—Josiah L. Shepard, one of the wealthiest and most respected residents of Beloit, died on Friday, after several years as an invalid. Among his liberal benefactions was a costly microscope given to Beloit College last year, one of the finest instruments in the country. He was formerly a wealthy manufacturer in New England, and came here on account of failing health some two years ago.

DISCHARGED.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Aug. 23.—Billy McFarland, an attendant at the State Hospital for the insane, was discharged by Dr. Boughton, Superintendent, on Saturday night, for giving testimony before the investigating committee adverse to the management.

HORRIBLE OUTRAGE.

Special to the Gazette.

READING, Pa., August 23.—A horrible discovery was made here to-day. A lunatic named Benjamin Schuyler, aged 55 years, has been chained in a dark hut in the Blue Mountains for 27 years, by a brother who fed him. He never saw light all that time.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Aug. 23.—Caucuses were held in the town of Windsor, this county, on Saturday night, and the delegates were elected to the Congressional Convention, favorable to the renomination of Mr. Caswell, as were also the delegates chosen in the town of Deerfield. Those chosen in the town of Dunn are said to be anti-Caswell, which means Bowman or Woodman. There is quite a contest going on in this county, but the chances are favorable for Caswell.

NEW YORK.

Very Encouraging Reports for the Republicans From the Empire State.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Times says: "We publish this morning letters portraying the political outlook in Oneida, Queens, Richmond, Saratoga, Tompkins, Wayne, Westchester, and Wyoming countries, and, like those presented in the Times one week ago, all agree that the prospects of a heavy increase in the Republican vote and of Republican success were never better. From Suffolk County to Lake Erie and from Richmond to St. Lawrence our correspondents tell substantially the same story of good feeling, enthusiasm, and unity in the Republican ranks; while from all sections the Democratic boast that the veterans would vote for Hancock is refuted in the most satisfactory manner, and evidences of dissension and indifference in the Bourbon party abound on all hands. In regard to the outlook in New York County, Republicans throughout the Union can feel assured that never before in the history of the party has such effective work been done as is now going on. Flourishing Garfield and Arthur clubs have been organized in every Assembly district in the city, and in many instances they exist in every election district of an Assembly district. The party is united and enthusiastic, well organized, and actively at work, and on every hand a determination is manifest to pull down the enormous majority which the Bourbon faction has heretofore piled up on Manhattan Island. The prospect is most encouraging to all Republicans. The Times has now heard from nearly every county in the State. There is no Hancock boom anywhere, and the Republicans are strengthened by numerous recruits from the Democratic side, especially among the level-headed business men.

MAINE.

Senator Logan reports the Situation in the Old Pine Tree State.

NEW YORK, August 22.—Among the visitors at the headquarters of the Republican National Committee Saturday was Senator Logan, who has been speaking in Maine. He was asked what were the prospects for Republican success in the old Pine-tree State. He replied; "We have no doubt of a Republican victory in September. Our meetings held have been enthusiastic and more largely attended than for years past. Many of those who have acted with the Greenback party are back in the Republican ranks. The trouble last year when the Democrats attempted to seize the State government has had the effect of aiding the Republicans. Many independent voters have declared their intention of supporting the Republican ticket. The canvass in Maine has been an exceedingly active one, and its result will be shown at the approaching election."

Senator Logan was to leave New York for Illinois this evening. In a few days he will go to Indiana, where he will speak at several important points before the October election.

PENSIONS.

Commissioner Bentley's Plan Improvements in the Pension Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Since the return of the Commissioner of Pensions, Mr. Bentley, he has set about to accomplish long needed improvements in his office. Every applicant for pensions has to be "hooked up" on the lists to determine whether or not he has sent in his name for a pension at any previous time. This is necessary because it is found that a large proportion of those applying for pensions have done so before, although they may state distinctly that they have not done so. This search for the name of the applicant cuts no figure as to allowance or refusal of a pension, but is the means of placing in the hands of the examiner whatever information may be on file regarding the case, or serves to determine whether or not the applicant is already drawing a pension from the government. In order to determine these points lists, or three-letter indexes, were made out, so that the name of Smith was found under "Smi." With the passage of the arrears of the pensions act came so many applications that the lists swelled to unwieldly proportions, so that under more common headings were found between 400 and 500 names. To run down down this enormous array of names took a great deal of time, and the books being worn and obliterated by constant use, had to be recopied—in itself a great task. After long reflection, Colonel Bentley hit upon a plan that will not only simplify the work, but make, at the same time, a valuable historical record for the several states. Under the new plan every applicant will be entered as belonging to a certain company, of a given regiment and State, and the records will thus be kept separately for each organization. If an applicant has served in more than one organization reference will be placed opposite his name to the volume and page where he is entered again under the appropriate head. In this way $40,000 a year it is estimated, will be saved in clerks' salary alone. In the second place, these books will afford the State authorities with an unfailing source of information as to their soldiers and rosters of their various organizations.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

ST. LOUIS, August 22.—Preparations for the reception and entertainment of Supreme Lodge of the World Knights of Pythias on Tuesday next are nearly completed, and everything will be ready at the proper time. Supreme Chancellor B. D. Woodruff arrived last night, and established his headquarters at the Lindell Hotel. A large number of individual Knights have arrived to-day and will begin to come to-morrow. These latter will be received at the Union Depot by a committee, by divisions assigned for that duty, and escorted to their quarters on Tuesday morning. The Supreme Lodge will be received at Odd Fellows Hall by the Grand Lodge of Missouri, when addresses will be delivered by Grand Chancellor W. H. Randolph, and response made by Supreme Chancellor B. D. Woodruff. The grand parade is to take place Wednesday afternoon at 4.

BEN BUTLER.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Colonel Jonas H. French, Butler's best man, who keeps the old man's conscience as much as any one, is authority for the statement that the General will not run for the Governorship this fall. It is said that General Butler withdraws himself as a gubernatorial candidate because he is desirous of promoting union and harmony, in the Democratic party of this State. Lest he might create another disruption in the ranks that seem now to be thoroughly united, he considered it advisable to refrain from entering the contest. General Butler, as already mentioned in the newspapers, has decided to support General Hancock, and will probably stump for him in Faneuil Hall next Saturday night. General Butler is expected to speak on National issues.

An Earnest Wish.

Rev. E. F. L. Gauss, Galena, Ills., writes: "For over ten years I had been a great sufferer from pains in the small of the back and region of the Kidneys, which were most excruciating and at times almost insufferable. Doctoring brought no relief, except perhaps momentarily, and I was finally advised, being unable to fulfill the duties of my calling, to go abroad and seek the climate of my youth. In Germany and Switzerland, eminent physicians, after close examinations, declared my sufferings to arise from disease of the Kidneys, of long standing, and could do me no good. I was however, benefited by the climate and consequently returned. No sooner had I been back and resumed my pastoral work, when the old trouble grew again so intense as to make life a burden. A few months ago I came in possession of one of DAY'S KIDNEY PADS, put it on, and the effects were truly wonderful. The pains at once grew less, and are now, after wearing the second PAD, entirely gone, and there can be no doubt that I am entirely cured, as I wrote this some weeks after its use and am strong and look again the very picture of health. I write this perfectly voluntarily, and it is dictated only by truth and gratitude. Indeed I consider the DAY KIDNEY PAD Co. God's agents and great benefactors of mankind. May all the suffering be helped as I have been, is my earnest wish."

HE'S BOSS NOW.

"Are you the boss of the house?" Yes replied the landlord, I'm boss now, for my wife died two weeks ago, what was the matter with her? Oh Dyspepsia and Billious Fever, she ought to have taken Spring Blossom and then she'd be boss still.

NEW BOOKS.

American Manual of Parliamentary Law—French Men of Letters—King Richard III—Geological History.

AMERICAN MANUAL OF PARLIAMENTARY LAW, or The Common Law of Deliberative Assemblies. Systematically arranged for the use of the parliamentarian and the novice. By GEORGE P. FISH. New York: Harper & Bros.; Chicago: Jansen, McClurg & Co. For sale by the Janesville dealers. Cloth, 16mo., price 70 cents.

This little work is a systematic, concise and complete manual for the conduct of deliberative bodies, covering in brief and clear statement the present state of parliamentary law as modified by authoritative practice. Its unique form renders it a book of ready, as it is a reliable reference; a marginal guide, together with a complete index, enables the user to turn to any subject with great celerity. For the general reader, this is the best and most convenient book of the kind which is published in this country.

FRENCH MEN OF LETTERS. By MAURICE MAURIS (Marquis de Calenzano). No. 61 of Appleton's new Handy Volume Series. New York: D. Appleton & Co.; Chicago: Jansen, McClurg & Co. For sale by the Janesville dealers. Price 35 cents.

Mauris' life and critical sketches of French men of letters includes twelve of the most popular current novelests, poets and critics of France, as well as a few whose work are still popular, but who have themselves passed away. The little volume, as a whole, is entertaining, and valuable as a sort of introduction to French literature of the day; the sketches are written in a light, gossipy, journalistic vein, and the criticisms are generally just.

KING RICHARD III, by Shakespeare, William J. Rolfe's edition. New York: Harper & Bros.; Chicago: Jansen, McClurg & Co. For sale by the Janesville dealers. Cloth, 16mo., price 70 cents.

Mr. Rolfe's school edition of Shakespeare's plays is thoroughly admirable. The little volumes are edited with conscientious accuracy and scholarly completeness, the notes being exceedingly valuable for educational purposes—being amply full, accurate, yet avoiding needless repitition and superfluous explanation, but thoroughly meeting all difficulties. "Richard III." is fully up to the high standard already established.

CHAPTERS FROM THE PHYSICAL HISTORY OF THE EARTH—By ARTHUR NICHOLS, F. G. S., F. R. G. S. New York: Harper & Brothers; Chicago: Jansen, McClurg & Co. For sale by the Janesville dealers. Price $1.25.

A liberal education, as the author very truly asserts in his preface, is incomplete without some knowledge of the leading principles of modern science. Accordingly, the more practical and immediately useful of the natural sciences—especially chemistry and physical geography—are now usually included in the regular course of study, wherever it is desired to maintain a standard of education commensurative with the demands certain to be made upon a student entering upon the professions, or aspiring to the higher grades of culture. Many excellent text-books exist; but they are necessarily technical, for the most part, and it becomes necessary, as the author has done in this volume, to bring the information they contain down to a focus, and directed to the elucidation of the physical and biological history of our planet. The work is, in fact, an introduction to a subject of undisputed interest, and of the utmost importance to the philosophical student. The author demands of the reader very little more than a sound general education, to enable him to follow without difficulty the reasoning by which it sought to establish the leading principles of geology; technicalities are avoided as far as possible, but those retained are very clearly explained. Prof. Nicols, in short, holds out in this book, a helping hand to that numerous body of intelligent men and women who are striving after self education with very inadequate means and opportunities, and are compelled to rely chiefly upon the popular scientific lectures which have of late years proved such valuable aids to education.

A CHANGE.

And What has Become of it in Railroads as Well as Other Circles.

There has been a decided change the past few months, in the position occupied by the Baltimore and Ohio among the other great roads of the country. One of the four trunk lines of the continent it commanded a fair share of the business between the east and west, but did not bear the prominent part its advantages entitled it to. Of late, however, there has been a revolution in so far as relates to the B & O, and it is now at the foremost instead of the any other place. No mere change or whim has produced this new order of things. On the contrary, it has been accomplished by prompt and thoroughly matured enterprise, by indomitable energy and steadfast determination. When the fast trains were put on there was a storm of opposition from opposing lines, but it had no effect on the B. & O. other than a stronger stand than ever to stick to its new policy. Already its passenger business has increased to such an extent as to necessitate large additions to the rolling stock of the road. Regular trains have had to be run at times in two sections, a thing never before known on the line. All summer long a large force of men has been kept busy laying new steel rail, and the track is being made as perfect as brains and money can accomplish. Not long since a run of 64 miles was made in an hour and nine minutes, and soon after, another run of ninety-three miles in less than an hour and forty minutes. This shows what sort of shape the track is in. The dining halls under the new regime are winning golden opinions from the traveling public. Cheerful and inviting in their new habiliments, the meals served are splendidly cooked and there is an abundance of everything. The Canton, the monster new transfer boat is a grand success in taking the New York trains of the road across the bay at Baltimore. There is no more horse transfers and no further necessity of the long, dark ride through the tunnel under the city.

THE POOR MAN'S FRIEND.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—The National View will publish to-morrow the following appeal to the workingmen:

"When William H. English, national banker, bondholder, mortgage dealer, and candidate for the Vice Presidency, goes armed with a slip of paper into the house of a mortgagee, and turns the housewife with her children into the street, robs it of every household treasure set there by the hand of affection; and to the husband who has seen his wife suffer and his children born under that roof; who has little by little, through sweat and pain, built up his altars and kept their fires alight, says, 'Go, this is mine.' Law gives me all this, what does the law do to him, what does public opinion do to him? What does the party which claims to be pre-eminently the poor man's friend do to him? Public opinion, in the form of poor men whom he has robbed, execrates him as the genius of cold and implacable money-getting, as hard as his coin, and as narrow as his bank notes. The party which clamors for the poor man's gratitude beholds him a fitting exponent of their legislative creed, and asks for him the suffrages of the men he has robbed in the past, as they mean to rob others in the future. Public opinion, in the form of an outraged and betrayed people, will forever put a quietus upon this wholesale robber; this cold oppressor of helpless poverty; this panderer to future debauchery and crime. Who shall say to what extremities the men and women he and others like him fend homeless on the world shall be driven? What redress have they? What hope, save to starve in despair or become birds of prey. An eating sore on the body politic, against whom, as tramps and outlaws, office-holding plunderers will legislate! Workingmen with no homes, or homes held by feeble tenure, whose title rests in hands like these; men whose wives and children fare scantily that four walls may shelter them, that their bare feet may touch the soil, which no other man can say is mine. Workingmen with daughters, who, in their laughing youth, may be sent downward to worse than death by the stroke of in what is yet your home. Workingmen, whose votes can settle the destiny of the nation, will you cast their votes for a man from whose hands drip the sweat of a thousand ruined men, and whose bank notes are wet with the tears of homeless women? Will you cast your votes for a party who, from selling black flesh on the auction block, have come to selling white flesh on every thoroughfare of the nation? Will you vote for the whited sepulchre who, in the false semblance of honor, sits in his iron-bound chamber and threatens you with the law should you dare speak of his crimes, for crimes they are against God and human nature, though protected by inhuman law? In his own person Wm. H. English has been the fateful destroyer of other men's homes and hopes. In his own person he has given his support to the suppression of free speech and the right of all men to a free and fair hearing. As the exponent and standard-bearer of his party he personifies a system which subverts ballots, which signifies the dominance of caste, which would perpetuate poverty, making slavery universal instead of sectional; which eagerly partakes of the spoils of its opponents, and has sold, for a mess of official pottage, the birthright of its fathers. The principles of the Democratic party are fittingly illustrated in Wm. H. English; and he in turn is the Democratic party in epitome. They are joined to their idols. Let them alone.

Lessons in Woodcraft.

The following hints, given by Forest and Stream, may be found useful by those who occasionally spend a few days in the woods:

1. Notes of the barrel owl and loon indicate rain within twelve hours. In the fall, wet weather follows the cry of the tree-toad.

2. Bark grows thickest on the north side of trees. Girdle a tree if you wish is north.

3. The centre of rotten stumps affords dry stuff for kindling fire in a drenching rain.

4. A torch which will burn twenty-four hours is made from half-inch strips of cedar bark bound together in fragments two feet long or more.

5. To hold a boat in a swift current, set the pole, oar or paddle on the bottom at an oblique angle with the side of the boat resting against it. Very little strength will be required.

6. To mend a birch canoe, cut a patch of bark large enough to cover the fracture; sew it on with an awl and stout cord or hemlock roots; then apply a piece of natural spruce gum to the seams or joints, with a glowing brand as a soldering-iron is used.

7. To carry a fish of two pounds weight or upwards, place it between hemlock boughs of the proper length, tied together at both ends and in the middle with bark, roots or cord. It will keep fresh and sweet for a long time, is easily cured, and will not soil what it touches.

Conundrums.

When is a wall like a fish? When it is scaled.

How does a stove feel when full of coals? Grateful.

Which of the reptiles is a mathematician? The adder.

When is a boat like a heap of snow? When it is a-drift.

When is a doctor most annoyed? When he is out of patients.

When is a literary work like smoke? When it comes in volumes.

Why is the letter G like the sun? Because it is the center of light.

What is that which shows others what it cannot see itself? A mirror.

Why is the letter N like a faithless lover? Because it is in constant.

How does a cow become a landed estate? By turning her into a field.

Why is whispering in company a breach of good manners? Because it is not aloud.

What is an old lady in the middle of the river like? Like to be drowned.

What word may be pronounced quicker by adding a syllable to it? Quick.

Why is a miser like a man with a short memory? Because he is always for-getting.

How does a sailor know there is a man in the moon? Because he has been to sea (see).

Why is a fool in a high station like a man in a balloon? Because everybody appears little to him, and he appears little to everybody.

A Wave Worth $900.

A party of ladies and gentlemen from Baltimore determined to take a bath at Atlantic City one day recently. They had heard so much about the loss of valuables while bathing that they were in doubt as to how to secure them. Instead of checking them with the bathing house proprietor, they gave their rings, watches and pocket books to a little ragged girl who was sitting on the beach, and told her not to move from where she was and she should have a quarter when they had finished bathing. The child agreed add taking the valuables in her lap sat perfectly quiet on the sand. An occasional glance from the bathers assured them that their things were safe. Presently a wave, bigger than its fellows, washed far up the beach, and the little custodian of the jewelry was compelled to hastily scramble a few feet more up the sand, much to the amusement of the party, who made several jokes upon the burning deck. Their merriment was changed to a very different feeling when, a moment later, they left the water and received their valuables from the child. A cluster diamond ring, valued at $900, was missing. It had been dropped by the child when she was compelled to beat a hasty retreat from the waves. A long search failed to reveal any trace of the lost ring, and the lady left for home the following day without it.

CHILDREN'S TEETH.

How They Should be Attended to and Decay Prevented.

The American Agriculturist says: A mother lately told me of her experience. A few years ago she thought that her oldest boy's teeth in the front of the lower jaw were decayed badly. This was a disappointment to the mother, who had fed her children carefully on nourishing and wholesome food, as a general rule, keeping both pickles and confectionery from them. Studying the matter over, she jumped to the conclusion that what she had read concerning the mischief-making properties of the tomato must be true, especially as her husband, who was very free in his use of tomatoes this season, had a peculiar trouble with his teeth. She had observed that the children's (especially the boys') teeth grew white and clean when there were plenty of ripe tomatoes, and she thought the acid of the vegetable went too far and acted upon the enamel of the teeth. But when the boy, who was then 14 years old, went to a dentist to have his teeth filled, lo! there was no filling to be done. "Your boy has a splendid set of teeth," the dentist told the mother. "There is not a cavity in them. Unusually good teeth for a boy of his age." And the dentist had no doubt that the teeth were better than they would have been if the owner of them had munched candy and pickles, as children always do. "They must be cleaned, and without delay," he said. So the tartar which had gathered and crusted gradually at the crown of the teeth was removed by the dentist, and with it all appearances of decayed teeth. Now the boy has nothing to do but to keep his teeth in order to avoid dentistry bills in the future. The younger children are warned to avoid the brother's trouble by the daily use of tooth brushes. From their father's case they learn to avoid the opposite extreme. His teeth are hopelessly discolored, and a few are habitually loose, but the useful tomato is no longer suspected as the cause. He had an opportunity to read some in a work on dentistry, and came to the conclusion that hard "scouring" of his teeth with gritty substances, when he was a young man, had worn away the hard enamel of his teeth, so that the strong coffee he drank (during his soldier life especially) penetrated and permanently colored his teeth. I dislike to hear of scouring the teeth. When they have been neglected this may be necessary to get them once clean. The dentist has peculiar tools for removing tartar crust, but the yellow deposit on children's teeth can be cleand away as the dentist does it, by any one. Take finely-powdered pumice stone and a little clean soft pine stick to rub with. Dip the pine stick into water and then in powdered pumice, and rub the teeth gently. Afterwards wash them with soap and water, using a tooth brush. It is well to use a little fine soap occasionally for cleaning the teeth, but plenty of pure water (a little warm in cold weather) will usually suffice for cleaning the teeth of persons of good dietetic habits. To make good teeth in the first place, beginning when we can begin, and allowing for "ancestry," the mother should eat plain and nutritious food, a varied diet well supplied with bone material, as the grains are when it is not bolted or sifted out, and lean meat. For young children milk should be freely used, and graham and oatmeal also.

A DISCOVERY BY ACCIDENT,

which supplies a want men of eminent ability have devoted years of study and experiment to find—a specific for diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs and Nervous System—and from the time of its discovery has rapidly increased in favor, gaining the approval and confidence of medical men and those who have used it; it has become a favorite with all classes, and wherever introduced has superseded all other treatments.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS

are the most prevalent, dangerous and fatal affections that afflict mankind, and so varied and insidious in their character, that persons often suffer for a long time before knowing what ails them. The most characteristic symptoms are gradual wasting away of the whole body, pain in the back, side or loins; a weak, feeble, exhausted feeling; loss of appetite and dread of exercise; scanty and painful discharge of variously colored urine; inability to retain or expel the urine; minute shreds or casts in the urine; and, when the disease is of long duration, there is much emaciation and general nervous prostration.

THE ONLY CURE.

We say positively, and without fear of contradiction, that DAY'S KIDNEY PAD is the first and only infallible cure for every form of Kidney disease. It is the best remedy yet discovered for this complaint, and more effectual in its operation than any other treatment. By using faithfully and persistently no case will be found so inveterate as not to yield to its powerful remedial virtues.

IS STRONGLY ENDORSED.

We have the most unequivocal testimony to its curative powers from many persons of high character, intelligence and responsibility. Our book, "How a Life was Saved," giving the history of this new discovery, and a large record of most remarkable cures, sent free. Write for it.

DAY'S KIDNEY PADS are sold by druggists, or will be sent by mail (free of postage) on receipt of their price—Regular, $2.00; Special, for obstinate cases of long standing, $3.00; Children's, $1.50. Address DAY KIDNEY PAD CO, Toledo, O.

Food for Children.

It is probably true that in this country more children are killed or made weakly for life by improper food, or over or under feeding, than by any other cause, and this is the more unpardonable because the kinds of food which, for children, are the most wholesome and nourishing are usually cheap and easily to be had and prepared. There are very few people in the United States so poor that they can not get for their children not only the right kind of food but plenty of it, so that here again we can only fall back upon the excuse, if we dare to call it such, of our own ignorance and thoughtlessness. In almost every household the children habitually get sweet cakes and pies, hot breads, preserves, pickles, etc., which cost twice as much, both in money and in the labor of preparation, as would the plain, digestible food which alone is suitable for growing children; and yet it seems almost impossible for mothers to realize that in giving these things to their children they are not only wasting time and money, but are also directly injuring their helpless little ones. It is certainly a very fortunate thing that Nature provides for a baby at its entrance into life food which is all-sufficient for its needs, for otherwise it seems as if the ingenuity of ignorant parents would by this time have extinguished the human race. Even as it is, some mothers insist on giving babies all sorts of food, sometimes going so far as to believe, or say they believe, that a little of anything that they themselves can eat will not hurt the baby. A woman might as well say that the baby's little hands can do the work of her hands, as that its little stomach can do the work of her stomach; and the result of such treatment is that the baby pines, falls sick, is drugged with medicine, and in nine cases out of ten dies, the victim of its mother's ignorance. A child which is completely weaned at twelve months old should, from that time until it is eighteen months old, be fed four times a day upon milk, simple preparations of the different grains, boiled or baked potatoes mashed fine, beef-tea, crackers and bread. From eighteen months, when children are healthy, a greater variety of food may be given, but the same care should be taken in regard to the regularity of their meals (for a habit of eating at odd times is harmful to any age), and that they get nothing which is not plain and wholesome. Sweet cakes, pastry, hot breads, greasy or highly-seasoned food of any kind should be strictly forbidden, while almost any meat (except pork), fish, rice, oatmeal, cornmeal, almost all kinds of fruit, and all easily digested vegetables, such as potatoes, tomatoes, spinach, etc., may be given, well cooked and in proper quantities, the heaviest meal being taken in the middle of the day, and the condition of the bowels being always carefully watched. Now, any woman with common sense and fairly good health can do all this without much trouble, and in the end will find that it is the easiest way to bring up her children, for this sort of care will keep them well and strong, saving all the expense and anxiety of the frequent illnesses which are usually the lot of children who are permitted to eat all sorts of things at all sorts of times. As, for example, in teething, when babies which are properly fed and cared for suffer very little, while badly managed children are almost always in pain and frequently have fits, convulsions, and those choleraic attacks which are so common a cause of death, especially in cities. You can not make good bread out of bad flour, you can not grow a strong plant from an unripe seed, you can not build a seaworthy boat out of decayed timber; how then ... expect your children to be healthy unless you give them in their food the material from which to make healthy bone and muscle, nerve and flesh?—Hampton Tract.

FEMININE FANCIES.

THE Philadelphia Mirror thinks that the bathing-dress of 1880 is a good thing for some other fellow's sister to wear.

A LANGTRY hood looks easy enough to make, but woe betide the woman who tries to fashion it by folding an oblong piece of stuff together and hollowing it out in the neck! Every body will laugh at her, and her dreams of being followed by a murmur of "How stylish!" as she walks along will not be fulfilled.

VERY little sunshades are prophesied in Paris. They are better as a protection for the face than the large umbrellas, for they have handles so short that they are necessarily held quite close to the countenance. When they come in fashion here the sensible woman will buy a dozen sun umbrellas for nothing, and be cool and happy for years.

THESE are a few of the ways in which English women use natural flowers: They make aprons of pink and white peonies and wear them with white gowns; drape pink satin with geraniums arranged in trellises; fringe blue satin with red and white double fuchsias, and place pockets of double narcissus on jersey tunics. The countess of Bective seems most ingenious in devising these decorations.

WHAT refreshing young women are those who wear the gowns that appear in English advertisements! In one a wide-eyed damsel, slender, low-browed, with a neck like a column of ivory, stands in the opening between two curtains with a deep embroidered border, half raises one with her graceful arm, and turns to show her star-dotted gown falling stright to her feet, and looking wofully like her night gear, in spite of its slanting girdle and the big Portia fan that lies against it, drooping idly from the maiden's hand. In another picture is a long robe of black velvet with sleeves flecked with white, and inside of it is a girl who kneels in a deep window and looks out from the casement with a simply overpowering background of curtain for encouragement.

MRS. LYNN LINTON draws this little picture by way of illustrating the phrase "bad style:" "That bad style, moreover, was a thing so subtle that it could scarcely be explained. The girl was dressed as it would seem by the description unexceptionably; and yet the sum total was failure. Her gray merino was made with the profusion of flounces and trimmings dear to second-rate fashion, and trimmed largely with mock lace of a common kind and pattern. Round her neck she wore a blue tie—Bernard's locket slung on to a long streamer of blue ribbon of a lighter shade than her tie—and a row of white satin-stone beads with a cross depending. Her golden hair was dressed in multitudinous puffs and braids—a wonderful structure, through which were visible unsightly tracts of greenish-colored frizettes, rather destructive of the effect sought to be produced; her hat was an audacious but very picturesque Rubens, with a long white feather, a red rose, a mother-of-pearl buckle, and a skeletonized kind of aigrette as the artistic ornaments among the black lace and velvet with which it was trimmed; and her gloves were dark green, single-buttoned."

Her First Watch.

SHE comes to school a few minutes late. She walks up the aisle, and lays her note of excuse upon the teacher's desk. There is a smile curling the corners of her lips; she subdues it resolutely. Her eyes sparkle; she fixes their glance upon the floor. Her hands have an unusual tendency to fumble about the region of her belt. She represses it sternly, and drops them at her side. She passes back to her seat. Her carriage, her gait, her every motion, are pervaded by such an evident desire to appear unconscious, that her schoolmates glance up as she goes by to see if she has on a new dress. No, she has not. She takes her seat, and bends assiduously over her task. Her seat-mate turns and scrutinizes her keenly; her eyes stop at the belt; she gives a start, claps her hands noiselessly behind her desk, and looking at the teacher to see if she is observed, bends eagerly forward to examine. The owner of the mystery shakes her head with affected nonchalance; but the inquirer persists. At last she succeeds, and it is produced. A gold watch! They open it, shut it, examine its works, compare it with the school-clock, exchange pantomimic congratulations and explanations. Finally, they telegraph its existence to the neighboring girls by a series of nods and winks, unintelligible save to the initiated. At recess, all cluster round to express their admiration; the owner receives their bursts of approval with proud humility. During class, she yawns every five minutes, and then draws it out to see if it is not time for dismissal. On her way home, she compares it with every church-clock she passes. She holds it up to her ear to be sure it is going; she feels of her belt to be sure it is there. She times her walk to school; she times her dinner; she times her tea; she times her studies; she times the making of her toilet. She receives with derisive incredulity any suggestions that she may not take proper care of it. It lies beneath her pillow that night, and the next morning, she forgets to wind it up. The day after, she drops it, and it has to be taken to the jeweler to be repaired. By next week, she has resolved to wear it only on great occasions, and when she goes out of town.—Youth's Companion.

ONE of the summer fashions, as described by Clara Belle in the Cincinnati Enquirer, is a new laugh, which goes like this: "Te-he, te-he! ha, ha, ha! Oh-h-h-h-ha, ha, ha!" The directions are as follows: "A low and sly beginning is made with the 'te-he,' as though mirth was struggling inside to break out through maidenly reserve, and the mouth is kept tight closed, wile the eyes are opened wide, thus giving an expression of mingled demureness and mischievousness. Then follows the 'Ha-ha-ha,' higher and louder, with a parting of the lips to show the teeth, if they be white and regular. The 'Oh-h-h' comes next in a tone of surprise, reproof, or artless gayety, according to the nature of the thing laughed at, and the voice rises into a pretty little scream. The ensuing pause covers a sudden sense of the impropriety of making so much noise, the eyes are cast down, and a blush can in most instances be produced by holding the breath, with the lungs very fully inflated. The final 'Ha-ha-ha' is given as a crescendo, spiritedly, and without any show of restraint, like the outbursting hilarity of an unconventional milkmaid. This novelty in laughs is heard everywhere in the metropolis, and is sure to become popular at the summer resorts. With a little alteration it can be made to fit any mouth."

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic Diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. ### A Case of 27 Years Standing.

INSLEY JEWETT, No. 15 Avon Place, Boston, says: "I have suffered, and sometimes severely, for twenty-seven years from Dyspepsia. During that time I had the best medical advice, and tried the effect of dieting, traveling, farming, and various other kinds of exercise, but without receiving permanent relief. I became very feeble, and my stomach at length rejected every kind of food, even rice-water. In January last I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP, and found immediate benefit from it. In the course of three or four weeks I was entirely relieved from my sufferings. Since then I have enjoyed uninterrupted health. I recommended the Syrup to one of my friends, who had suffered severely from neuralgia. He took one bottle of it, which relieved him at once; and, not having had any return of the disease for three months, he considers himself permanently cured." Sold by all druggists. Sold in Janesville by Prentice & Evenson. aug23dcodw1w

BRIEFLETS.

—Council night.

—Churches drew well yesterday.

—William Conroy, Sunday drunk, $3 and costs.

—Tickets for "Freaks" are selling well at Moseley's, and there is the promise of a full house.

—M. C. Smith & Son are pushing trade. W. M. Carrier starts out to-day on the road to sell goods for them.

—B. B. Eldredge's mare Calamus is entered in the 2:28 class at the Minneapolis races, and also in the 2:24 class.

—Lawrence Barrett, who is to be in Janesville September 6th, will play "Richelieu." It is a treat to which many look forward to with great expectancy.

—Miss Angie King was the successful competitor on the lung tester at Heinstreet's, having blown to 256, and therefore receives the prize, a handsome toilet set of four pieces.

—The amount of money order business for the week ending August 21st, was as follows: Money order issued 104; amount $1,489.65. Money orders paid 71; amount $1,240.73. Total $2,730.38.

—Weather prophets have foretold that to-day and to-morrow will be the hottest of the whole summer. The thermometers will have to be lengthened out, by building summer kitchens on the end of them to let the mercury cook in.

—The proposed excursion to the Dells, which was to have taken place this week is declared off. The number who had expressed themselves as intending to go indicate that a successful excursion could be arranged for, if rightly managed.

—A telegram to Dr. Humphrey from his wife, this morning announces the sudden death of her brother at St. Paul, Sunday. The remains will be taken to Waukesha for interment. The Doctor will go to Waukesha Tuesday morning at 8:40 and return at 6:55, the same evening, and give his lecture Tuesday evening as usual.

—There were between four and five hundred people who attended the open air temperance meeting yesterday afternoon in the Court house park. A. D. Wickham gave an hour's talk, which was closely listened to, and proved of interest. Rev. H. Sewell also addressed the meeting, but only briefly. It is proposed to hold more such meetings in the future.

—Dr. Frothingham, the English specialist, opened his office at the Myers house, this morning, and up to three o'clock p. m., had received thirty-one patients, which speaks justly well for his popularity in our city. The fact that he so accurately describes every ache and pain without question is convincing all of his ability to treat what he, without doubt, so thoroughly understands. Let all bear in mind he will be in our city the balance of this week only.

—Miss Lublie Foster has bought out Mrs. A. E. Erwin, the dressmaker, who is soon to leave our city for Dubuque, Iowa, Miss Foster learned her trade of Mrs. Erwin, and is considered by her to be fully competent to carry on her business and please all of her customers. Several ladies of our city who have formerly employed Miss Foster heartily unite in testifying to her skill and taste. She will be found at Mrs. Erwin's rooms hereafter, of which further notice will be found in the Gazette.

—Saturday afternoon Dr. Horne brought his mare to M. C. Smith & Son's store for Frank Smith to use, and as the owner left her standing at the crossing while he stepped inside to tell Frank he was there, the mare thought she would follow. She got inside the doorway, and the Doctor seeing her, thought he might as well have her complete the trip, and taking hold of the bridle led her up to the cashier's desk, and handed the reins through the window, remarking, "Here's your horse." The mare took in the situation coolly, and after looking around among the piles of clothing, was led down the other side of the store and out on Milwaukee street. It's a pretty good sort of store for a race-course, and a pretty good sort of a horse that went the rounds.

World renowned, as unrivaled, the ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK.

FUNNY FREAKS.

The comedy of "Freaks" to be presented at the Opera house next Thursday evening by the New York Criterion Comedy company promises to give all who love to laugh an abundant chance to do so, and to have something worth laughing at. The Boston Journal says:

The most attractive performance of the week by the New York Criterion Comedy Company in our view, was "Freaks." It is a running stream of fun, and contains more witty dialogue, no less than comic situations, than any play written for many years. And it was correspondingly enjoyed. It is something cheerful and exhilarating to hear an audience on the continuous roar, and especially at and with what is decent in sentiment and incident. Such were the audiences the latter half of the week.

The N. Y. Criterion Company is an excellent organization. All the leading parts were given with cleverness, clearness and accuracy.

REPUBLICAN BALLOTS.

Hamilton Richardson Nominated for State Senator from this District.

Doings of the Convention.

The Republican delegates of this senatorial district met in Convention at the Court House this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of nominating a candidate for State Senator.

GOING INTO CAMP.

Arrangements are completed for the attendance of the First Battalion Wisconsin National Guard, at the encampment at Rockford. The Whitewater company is expected to arrive in this city at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, and will here join our two home companies. These three companies, together with the Bower City Band, will have a street parade to-morrow morning, marching from the corner of Main and Court street to the depot, which will afford our citizens a chance to see "the military." The train on which they will leave for Rockford will start at 9 o'clock, and will be the first to run over the new road to Afton. At Beloit the Delavan and Beloit companies will board the train. It is expected that the First Battalion will go into camp with about 200 men.

"Old Abe" the veteran eagle which made such a record with the old Eighth regiment, Col. Britton's old regiment, arrived from Madison this afternoon in charge of its keeper, and will remain quartered at the Grand hotel until to-morrow morning, when it will accompany the Battalion to Rockford. The old bird always attraction wherever he appears, and his friends in Janesville seem to be numerous.

Thos. Fitcham, of Bradford, Pa., writes: I enclose money for Spring Blossom, as I said I would if it cured me, my Dyspepsia has vanished with all its symptoms. Many thanks, I shall never be without it in my house.

Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

CROOKED CAMPERS.

They Quarrel With each Other, Slash and Strike, and Make Night Hideous.

For several days past there has been a band of traveling tinkers, who have hovered about this vicinity. They live Gypsy fashion and yet are not Gypsies. The band seemingly numbers four families, at least there are four men, but there are women and children enough to make up several families in any state outside of Utah. They have about twenty horses and they seem ready to sell or to trade, and do a little tinkering business also. In the early part of last week they were near Monroe, camping out, and while there the officers captured one of the male quartet, for stealing a horse belonging to Mrs. Jones, of Elkhorn. The horse was found with the others, and the thief was taken back to Elkhorn. The rest of the gang moved along to Beloit, and then came to this city. They camped near Barr Robbins' farm last Friday, and Saturday morning the Marshal warned them to leave the city. They promised to do so, but at night were still here, and made their presence known by the most owlish hoots and wildest screeches. There were cries of "murder," and groans of pain, and a great amount of irreverent praying. Two of the children from the camp came up town after the officers, saying that there was cutting and shooting and clubbing going on among the tents, and asked for help to save the women and children. Officers Fred Comstock, Hogan and Drake started for the camp. It was a wild scene. Nearly all were taking a hand in the free-fight, and most of them had more or less scratches and cuts, from which the blood flowed freely. One great fat woman seemed to be the terror of the little ones, who kept shouting that she had a revolver. Another woman was groaning over a bullet wound on the scalp. At sight of the officers the drunken, bloody crowd quieted down. Comstock and Drake took charge of one of the men, and started with him for jail. Hogan started for another, but he took to his heels. The chase was kept up through the fields till the fellow threw himself on his back, and refused to get up. He was dragged out and loaded on a wagon, and pulled into jail also. He presented an ugly sight, his face being cut and the blood spurting forth freely. An inquiry showed that the quarrel started with the two men, who were both drunk, and as soon as they were removed peace reigned, and in accordance with the promise given the officers, the tinkers moved at daybreak yesterday morning, and got beyond the city limits. It is supposed they went towards Beloit.

This morning the two men were brought before Justice Nolan. They promised to leave town at once, and in consideration of this, the fine was made only $10 each, including costs. They wanted to know if $10 would do for both of them, instead of for each, but justice wouldn't banter, and they had the choice of paying the sum or staying in jail for ten days.

Nerve Power.

Few people suffer so much nervous exhaustion as newspaper editors. The wear and tear of getting out a good paper tell fearfully, and readers seldom know how much vital force a single item may have cost the one who wrote it. Editors have often been driven to drink in order to stimulate their exhausted faculties, but of late are using Warner's Safe Nervine instead. This valuable preparation acts as a soothing power, quieting the nerves and producing sleep with all the refreshment that it brings.

OBITUARY.

M. W. SHEAFE.

Last evening shortly before nine o'clock death claimed as its own M. W. Sheafe, who passed away at the ripe old age of eighty-three years. He had been a resident of this city for twenty years past, coming here from Brooklyne, Mass, near Boston, in 1860. In early life he followed the sea, and was for many years engaged in trading between this country and South America. Since he took up his residence in this city he has not been engaged in any active business, but has led a retired life. He was a social, pleasant man to meet, and won many friends, yet ever preserved a quiet mien. He was a member of Trinity Episcopal church, and in his personal habits were consistent with the faith he professed. He leaves a wife, a son, M. W. Sheafe, Jr., of Elk Point, Dakota; a daughter, Mrs. Dr. Miller, of Yankton; and two step-daughters—Mrs. Rev. Tate, of Niles, Mich., and Mrs. Treadwell, who is now in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sheafe's health has been enfeebled for years, but still he was able to be out and about most of the time. He was frequently taken so ill that death seemed nigh, but would rally and gain his accustomed strength. His last and fatal illness began about a week ago, and from it there was no rallying, he growing weaker and weaker until death came. To those who mourn will be extended the hearty sympathy of many, who have learned to esteem greatly him who has been thus taken away.
